People who leave their attache cases & typewriter ribbons open for inspection, without realizing it are not always apt to get specified items to a vault in time whether it be 12 blocks or 1200 hundred miles. Some of the nicest people are not always the safest.

Just for the record! O.K.?
